Provision of this notice to an individual by anyone of the covered entities will satisfy HIPAA provision requirements with respect to all other entities covered by this joint notice.

Wisconsin Health Fund is required by law to maintain the privacy of your protected health information. Protected health information is any individually identifiable health information, including demographic information, collected from an individual, that is created or received in any form by a covered entity, which relates to the past, present or future physical or mental health condition of an individual or the provision of health care to an individual, or payment for the provision of health care to an individual.

Examples of protected health information include but are not limited to name, address, city, county, precinct, zip code (except the first three digits), date of birth, telephone and fax numbers, email address, social security number, medical record numbers and health plan beneficiary number.

This notice describes the legal duties and privacy practices of Wisconsin Health Fund.

USES/DISCLOSURE ALLOWED WITHOUT YOUR AUTHORIZATION

Wisconsin Health Fund is permitted by law to use health information about you without your authorization for several purposes. For each category noted below we will explain the particular purpose we are allowed to use or disclose your health information for without your authorization and give you at least one example. Please note that not every permissible use or disclosure in a particular category is listed. However, all the ways we are permitted to use protected health information without your authorization must fall into one of these categories.

1. Treatment: We may use or disclose your personal health information to facilitate prompt diagnosis and treatment. For example; we may disclose your personal health information to a specialist to help determine the best treatment for your condition.
2. Payment Functions: We may use or disclose protected health information to facilitate payment for services, coordinate benefits with other responsible parties, determine eligibility for benefits, and obtain premiums. For example, we may disclose your name; date of birth, diagnosis and a description of the service your doctor provided on a claim form so that we may bill your insurance company for these services.
3. Health Care Operations: We may use or disclose your protected health information to carry out functions, which are necessary to the operation of our business. For example, we may review the medical information from your chart to determine if you have been provided with the proper health screening tests such as an annual pap smear. Activities that fall under this category include, but are not limited to quality improvement, medical review activities, legal services, cost reduction activities, evaluating health plan performance, business planning and compliance activities.
4. Appointment/Service Reminders: We may contact you to provide appointment reminders and information about various services or treatments available; For example, we may look at your medical record and determine that you are due to have a particular test or service and send a letter to remind you of this. Or we may look at your medical record and decide that a service we offer may be of interest to you. For example, we may contact a diabetic patient to inform them of an upcoming class on managing diabetes.
5. Facility Directory: Unless you object, we may inform people who either call or come in and ask for you individually by name of your presence in our facility and your general location (i.e., medical department, dental department, pharmacy, customer service). For example, if your spouse would call and ask for you by name and you were here for a dental appointment we could tell them that you are at Wisconsin Health Fund in the dental department.

imminent threat to the health or safety of a person or the public.

17. Specialized Government Functions: We may use or disclose protected health information to allow the government to carry out their duties under the law.
18. Correctional Institutions/Incarceration: We may use or disclose protected health information if the information is needed to protect the health or safety of any person or the security and good order of any institution.
19. Worker's Compensation: We may use or disclose protected health information to the extent necessary to comply with Worker's Compensation law or similar programs that provide benefits for work-related injuries.
20. Plan Sponsor: We may also disclose your health information to the sponsor of your health plan.
21. Individual's Care: We may disclose your health information to a family member, close personal friend or other person identified by you who is helping to care for you or pay your medical bills. You have the right to object to such disclosure unless you are unable to function or there is an emergency.
22. Notification Purposes: We may use or disclose protected information, such as your location, your general condition or your death to your family or another person responsible for your care, for notification purposes. You have the right to object to such disclosure unless you are unable to function or there is an emergency.
23. Disaster Relief: We may use, or disclose your health information to any entity authorized by law to assist in disaster relief efforts. You have the right to object to such disclosure unless you are unable to function or there is an emergency.

For the situations noted above under Individual's Care, Notification Purposes and Disaster Relief, if you are able to make health care decisions for yourself, you have the right to object to disclosure of your health information. It is our duty to give you enough information so that you can decide whether or not to object to the release of your health information or not. If you do not express an objection or from the circumstances at hand we reasonably infer, based on our professional judgment that you do not object to the disclosure we are permitted to disclose your health information. If you are not present or are unable to agree or object to the disclosure because of incapacity or an emergency we may exercise professional judgment to determine whether the disclosure is in your best interest and if so, we will make the disclosure. An example of this would be our allowing your spouse to pick up a prescription for you while you are temporarily incapacitated due to recent surgery.

Written Authorization Required: Except as described in this Notice of Privacy Practices, we must obtain your written authorization to release your health information. If you do provide authorization to permit other releases of your health information you may withdraw it at any time, as long as your withdrawal is in writing. If you wish to withdraw your authorization, please submit your written withdrawal to Wisconsin Health Fund, Attention: Privacy Officer, 6200 West Bluemound Road, Milwaukee, WI 53213.
